8 Fig. 2 is the B-figure (Einstein, 1905).

9 Here is a reference to appendix Fig. A1.

10 1.1 This is a section title with an equation in it; namely $\delta^{18}\text{O}$

11 Fig. 3 is the A-figure again.

12 Tab. 1 is a table example.

19 Appendix A

20 Fig. A1 is an appendix figure with a specific appendix prefix.

21 Tab. A1 is a longtable example with reduced row height and specific appendix prefix.

Table A1: This is the caption of a longtable with reduced row height example with a specifix appendix prefix.

Animal	Description	Price ($)
Gnat	per gram	13.65
Gnu	stuffed	92.50
Emu	stuffed	33.33
Armadillo	frozen	8.99

22 Tab. A2 is a longtable example with reduced row height and line breaks in the table headers and 23 a specific appendix prefix.

Table A2: This is the caption of a longtable with reduced row height and multi-row table headers example with a specifix appendix prefix.

25 Tab. A3 is another longtable example with reduced row height and line breaks in the table headers 26 and a specific appendix prefix.
